

Feedback Workshop

(75 – 110 minutes)

0. General recommendations

If time gets tight, prioritize:

- a. Sheet/certificate Handover
 - b. Peer Interviews
- Rotate roles if short on staff (e.g. observers can also prompt during peer interviews).
 - Emphasize there are no “wrong” answers, especially in read-aloud and pictogram parts.
 - Encourage participation from quieter individuals
 - Keep time but allow space for honest reflection—flex if the group is engaged.

1. Kick-off / Introduction: 5 – 10 Min

Quick introductory talk

2. The concluded Tricot trial: 5 – 10 Min

Explain the objectives, processes, and scope of the concluded trial.

3. Feedback sheet explanation and handover: 20 - 25 min

Explain the structure and purpose of the Farmer Feedback Sheet and distribute one copy to each participant

4. Group discussion by preference: 5 - 10 min

- Divide farmers into small groups based on their preference rankings (e.g., those who preferred Biggie, those who preferred Baba-70, etc.).
- Ask each group to discuss the following questions:
 - Why did you choose this variety?
 - What stood out to you about its performance?

- How did the trial results align with your expectations?
- What are your next steps in applying what you’ve learned from this trial?

- Ensure that each group member has a chance to speak and encourage them to share personal experiences.

•

5. Overall Results Presentation:

15 - 20 min

- Ask each group to present their top preferences and explain the reasoning behind their choices.
- Encourage open dialogue by asking the other groups about questions or comments on each presentation.

6. Overall Results Presentation:

10 - 15 min

- Present the overall trial results in a simple visual format, using a graph or chart.
- Explain the concept of Incomplete Block Design (IBD) and why it ensures robust and valid results for the trial.
- Emphasize that the trial involved ### farmers, highlighting the community-driven effort.

7. Certificate Handover: 5 min

Distribute the participation certificates to the farmers.

8. The Net Promoter Score (NPS): 5 - 10 min

“How likely are you to recommend this feedback sheet and session to another farmer?”

9. Workshop closing: 5 - min

Thank participants for their time and contributions and formally close the session.
